DOT Registry Team,

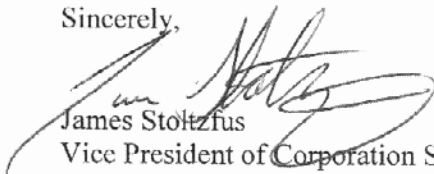

I understand from our recent conversation that Dot Registry is applying for the rights to manage new Internet name extensions under ICANN's new GTLD program. I also understand that your applications focus on serving specific communities, which would restrict companies from being awarded a new domain name under your gTLD extensions if they are not determined to be valid and existing U.S. corporations or similar entities. I believe that this requirement would be beneficial to business owners because it will significantly increase their chances of having a domain name that matches their registered name, thereby helping them both promote and protect their online presence. I also believe that having businesses have domain names that match their official company name will help consumers with Internet navigation and will allow them to know they are transacting with a duly established company.

My company, Corporation Service Company (CSC), is an industry leader in both the incorporation of companies in the United States and in serving as a domain registrar of choice for many of owners of the World's most recognized brands. As we discussed, we are interested in exploring a relationship with you where we would leverage our capabilities in both the incorporation and domain space to help you verify that the companies are duly established under the applicable jurisdiction's laws and with issuing the related domain names to other registrars, resellers and registrants.

As the General Manager of the Corporate Identity Protection Division and Head of Global Business Development at CSC, I am acutely aware of the dangers that business identity theft poses to corporations. From this knowledge base I believe that DOT Registry's application would provide a great service to business owners in the United States and I expressly support your application for the restricted use of any strings specifically delineating a business entity type (.LLC, CORP, .LLP, .INC etc).

I wish you much success in this endeavor and look forward to the opportunity of building a long relationship with our companies.

Sincerely,

James Stoltzfus
Vice President of Corporation Service Company

Subject: Letter of Support for the Restricted Use of the Top Level Domains,
“.INC,” “.LLC,” “.CORP,” and “.LLP”

Ladies and Gentlemen:

LegalZoom.com, Inc. (“LegalZoom”) is the nation's leading provider of online legal document services and legal plans to families and small businesses. The company was founded by top talents in law and technology to make the benefits and protections of the law accessible and affordable. LegalZoom is not a law firm. LegalZoom provides self-help services and a legal plan where customers have access to attorneys at a fixed monthly fee.

As an example of our customer base, during the year 2011, our customers formed over 100,000 LLCs nationwide using our system.

I can confirm that the community of United States corporations, LLPs, and LLCs is one that is clearly delineated as an entity must register with a U.S. Secretary of State or similar government authority in order to be formed and recognized. As a Delaware corporation, LegalZoom is a member of this community.

You asked our corporate view on the concept of restricting the use of “.INC”, “.LLC”, “.LLP”, and “.CORP” to members of their respective U.S. registered business communities. We believe that these restrictions are important in protecting companies and consumers in the United States.

As a leader in our industry we are excited about the opportunity of offering our support to this concept as we believe the strings “.LLC”, “.INC”, “.LLP”, and “.CORP” can and should be offered to customers in an innovative way to enhance their business credibility online. We would look forward to discussing our role in this effort further should the opportunity arise.

Sincerely,

Kenneth E. Friedman

Dear Shaul;

I understand from our conversation that you and Dot Registry are applying for the rights to manage new internet name extensions under ICANN's new GTLD program. I also understand that your application is a "members only" community application which restricts a company being awarded a new domain name to be a valid and existing US corporation of similar fidelity. I believe this differentiation in restrictive use will bring a higher level of credibility and trustworthiness to the users and owners of these sites.

I serve as a Chairman of The Roasterie, INC. Our company operates a web site under the domain name theroasterie.com. We are incorporated as a Missouri Corporation and are a member of the larger community of US based corporations.

I am writing in support of Dot Registry's application for the issuance of these "strings" that would attempt to protect legitimate businesses and consumers from confusion or fraud; such restrictions would include measures to authenticate the active and good standing status of all corporations who seek to register a second-level domain within the respective TLD as proposed by DOT Registry.

I wish you much success in this endeavor and look forward to the opportunity to be awarded the domain name theroasterie.inc.

Sincerely,

Danny O'Neill
